Chas. Wilbraham, Secretary-Treasurer, M.D. Battle River No. 423, Irma 3-15.

It's an old saying that this is a small world—chiefly because of the fact that who ever one will, he or she will meet on their travels some former acquaintance. The writer had this experience this week travelling from Staughton in southern Saskatchewan, where the people are droughted out, to look for fresh pastures, it was indeed a surprise to meet among his new acquaintances in Wainwright, one by the name of Martin Forster. Mr. Forster was also a resident of Staughton, but left there in 1906. It was a pleasant surprise to learn that this renewed acquaintance has scaled the ladder of popularity until one of the highest distinctions which can be conferred on a citizen has been his—that of Mayor of his home town—and standard bearer of a great political party. As a citizen of his former town, it is a pleasure to be able to make the statement that his pioneer record was one of highest integrity, and one which would merit the confidence of any community.

At Irma another former acquaintance has settled in the person of Mr. Vic Hightcham. The present writer has not had the pleasure of calling on Vic, but having known him for years, we want his neighbors to know that he is a worthy acquaintance for any company and as they have already found out, a good citizen.

There's a modern song out which goes something like this "Love thy neighbor, etc. etc.", especially if there should be a beautiful girl next door." Now we're not passing out a suggestion from this office for people to go loving "that beautiful girl next door" nor anything like that; but having dropped in like a bolt from the blue in a very unceremonious way into a position which is somewhat public, the general public may pass up the loving, yet be a little friendly and help a lame dog over a stile as it were.

To publish a newspaper it takes news. Everyone knows something which would interest a neighbor, yet are indifferent to passing it along.

The reader will understand what news is—a murder, christening, wedding or earthquake. And if someone should be visiting you or your neighbors (again that vision of a beautiful girl next door) just do down the names and particulars and hand it into the "Record," or get on a phone with us at the other end. We will appreciate it. T. E. in a little while, when acquainted should a divorce be required we'll try to help out a little.

A PUBLIC TRIBUTE

Merchants, companies and enterprises individuals long ago discovered that advertising brings a definite and sure return when intelligently presented, and of late years governments have been experimenting in the same direction with gratifying results, says the Montreal Gazette. During the war, advertising was largely responsible in Canada for the success of the war as the people being made familiar with the needs and conditions, with the result that they responded to an astonishing extent.

In Great Britain today, government advertising has been turned to advertising with profit to the state and benefit to the people. Sir Kingsley Wood, the parliament general is the latest high official to pay tribute to advertising. He was called upon a few evenings ago to address the annual meeting of the Association of Advertisers in connection with his remarks stated that much of the recent record increase of business at the Post Office had been due to extensive and consistent advertising. About two and a half years ago, he said, the Post Office first utilized the new-paper, and the first thing they found was that the public did read the advertisements and assimilate their contents.

The advertising campaign was launched under depressing economic conditions, and the lesson was then learned that advertising was as necessary and as valuable in bad times as in good. When other countries had suffered very heavy losses in telephone stations, Great Britain not only maintained its number of subscribers, but increased them.

Speaking on advertising generally the post-master-general stated that in the depression, firms which sold their goods by advertising were bigger today than in pre-war times. It was essential that goods should be as represented and of a nature to suit the public demand. If the advertising was honest, repeat orders came more call advertising into its service to project across the world the soundness of British goods. As for the Post Office, a new telephone drive was to be undertaken, and said the speaker, "we shall again find that the value of advertising in newspaper advertising." Sir Kingsley is convinced of the value of honest and persistent advertising, and his testimony is all the more valuable in that he is an unbiased witness. He has discovered that advertising sells and pays well, in public as in private business.—Tofield Mercury.

Soviet Claims Scouted

Claims from Moscow that Russia had usurped second place among the world's gold producing countries, superseding Canada, have been received with almost universal skepticism. Apparently, the statement has been interpreted as just another of those efforts in propaganda with which Soviet authorities try their nationals to further sacrifices, but which singularly fail to impress the outside world.

During progress of the first five year plan, Moscow deluged the world with claims of amazing achievement, which, now that the ardors of the period have subsided, are being assessed at their true worth. There is no gaining the great advances made in certain industries, particularly the so-called heavy industries, under the program initiated by Lenin and carried into effect by Stalin. In some instances these have been spectacular, but (and this is the rub) seldom have they been quite as significant or outstanding as the claims made concerning them.

Several of the leading magazines and newspapers of Britain and America are devoting considerable space to reviewing the Soviet industrial and agricultural achievement. These have been equitable, unprejudiced and, probably based upon the true facts, for truth and not antagonistic propaganda is what the public seeks these days. The claims made on behalf of socialist endeavor by proponents of Socialism of the Russian variety, apparently do not stand the test of statistical investigation. Alan Monkhouse, one of the British engineers recruited for propaganda purposes in the notorious sabotage trials of a year or so ago, in a book of his experiences in Russia is surprisingly sympathetic to the Soviet planning scheme in the light of the circumstances preceding his deportation. Paying some attention to the statistical record of industrial achievement, he shows that the Soviet government's own figures in specialized lines such as house building do not compare favorably with similar achievements in capitalist and individualistic England, recorded at the same time. He cites several particulars in which Soviet authorities claimed to have out-distanced their degenerate and collapsing capitalist contemporaries, which are not substantiated by the facts.

Apparently, the same is true of the gold production, backed by Russia threats that, having overtaken Canada they will shortly overtake and pass South Africa in production of the precious metal. In reply to this, Canadian mining authorities maintain that, while undoubtedly Russia has been creeping up in production, it has not yet supplanted Canada as ranking second in production of newly mined gold. Much of the Russian gold, it is claimed, was withdrawn from hoarding and, therefore, it is old gold reclaimed.

South Africans scoff at what they term a bombastic claim, and have no fear of losing premier place among the world's gold producers. This contention is backed by Dr. P. S. Nasaroff, formerly a famous Russian geologist and now a fugitive from the Bolsheviks. His statement, based on actual knowledge of the various Russian goldfields and not upon political bias, is to the effect that nowhere in Russia do gold-laden bodies occur with the regularity and in the volume seen on the Rand in South Africa. "If Russian gold fields ever reach the stage of providing competition for South Africa it will be at tremendous cost of time and labor of transportation," he concludes.

Salvaging Gold From Chimney

U.S. Assay Office Reclaims It From The Soot

Since the U.S. government devaluated the dollar, almost doubling the dollar value of every scrap of gold, the Assay office in New York has been using every conceivable precaution in its melting room to conserve the metal. The Assay office is housed in a relatively new building, white and severe, at the corner of Old Building and South Street. One of its important installations is called a fume precipitator—in reality, a series of metal sleeves, each plumed by a chain. Alternating currents run through the chains and the sleeves; and, as smoke passes up the chimney, the soot particles, containing minute quantities of gold, are dashed from the air by this electric barrage and fall to the bottom of the flue. This precious residue is collected once or twice a year by men who go into the basin of the chimney and shovel it out. The Assay Office realizes $10,000 to $15,000 on the sale of gold reclaimed from chimney soot. Even the dust on the walls is collected for gold.

Easy To Remember

The debate over "I" and "me" goes on unendingly, but there is one thing that we ought to stop. It is the phrase, "between you and I." If the people who use it would reverse the pronouns and say "between I and you," they might learn to use the correct form, but every day we hear from the most unexpected sources the heart-rendering "between you and I." The correct form, of course, is "between you and me."

Change of Climate, Diet, Water Often the Cause of Diarrhoea

If you are suddenly attacked with Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Tramps, Pains in the Stomach, Summer Complaint or any Looseness of the Bowels, do not wait valuable time, but get a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and see how quickly it will relieve you. This bowel complaint remedy has been on the market for the past 88 years. Proof enough that you are not experimenting with some new and untried medicine. Do not accept a substitute. Get "Dr. Fowler's" when you ask for it, and be on the safe side. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Was In Two Rebellions

Alberta Veterans Carried Despatches For General Bell

In Alberta 50 years ago, when highways were just fading from the western frontier with the coming of the first Northwest Mounted Police, and when Indians were still on the warpath often, Charles F. Stewart drove the mail stage, Nov. 69 and retired, he lives at Edmonton.

Native of the prairies, he saw two rebellions at first hand. Son of the chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Co., he was a lad of eight and lived a few miles below Fort Garry (later Winnipeg) in the troublous days of the first Red River rebellion. He can recall seeing the soldiers coming up the Red river. As a youth of 20, when the mails were stopped by the Saskatchewan rebellion of 1885, he went on the courier line, carrying dispatches for General Hoffman of Alberta field force. He made several trips on horseback between Saddle Lake and Fort Pitt.

His predecessor on the mail job, Peter Campbell, was on the driver's seat when the Calgary coach was held up and the mails robbed by highwaymen in the only case of its kind in this part of the west.

It was no picturesque coach that was in use in 1891, but a lumber wagon with an open centre for package freight and a closed cabin on the rear that accommodated six passengers. An average of 40 miles of trail was covered each day by the plodding team and numerous creeks and streams were forded on route.

Proposed Tax On Noise

Idea Of British Ministry Of Transport May Save Nerves

A tax on noise is proposed to save the nerves of the people of the United Kingdom. It is thought that taxation may succeed where all appeals have failed in the matter of unnecessary noise, and the suggestion of a tax was made in a letter from Leslie Hore-Belisha, minister of transport, which was read at a conference of the Anti-Noise League at Oxford.

"All new heavy motor cars put on the road since January, 1933, have to be fitted with pneumatic tires," he wrote, "and the scales of taxation have been so framed as to give a strong incentive to people to substitute pneumatic tires on existing vehicles. The heavy vehicle on solid tires which caused so much unnecessary noise in the past is rapidly disappearing."

"Regulations also forbid the use of motor vehicles and trailers which have caused excessive noise, and the sounding of horns on stationary vehicles."

"The road traffic bill proposes further to prohibit the use of the horn in prescribed hours and zones of silence." Mr. Hore-Belisha stated that in order to gain exact knowledge of what really causes noise the ministry has invoked the best scientific assistance. He expressed the hope the motor manufacturing industry will co-operate with the government in a determined effort to find a remedy for present unnecessary and harmful noises.

Rebuilding Viking Boat

Oak Timbers Intact After Being Submerged Thousand Years

A Viking boat has been "reconditioned" at Danzig, after one thousand years. Workmen engaged in digging a ditch at Oliva found the remains of the boat only five feet beneath the surface of the ground. The sturdy oak planks of which the boat was originally built had defied the ravages of time so successfully that it has been possible to reconstruct the vessel in its entirety. The boat is thirty feet long, with places for eighteen oarsmen. Iron nails had been used in the making, as well as wooden pegs. Parts of the hull, with the original rowlocks, have survived, and much of the moss with which the seams were packed to make them water-tight is still in place.

Wine must come from a limited area of France to be legally called champagne.

Talk About Economy

Two Towns In Bulgaria Have Everything Else But

There is a legend current in the picturesque little Balkan town of Panagurichite that when God once was bestowing his gifts, he allotted close-fistedness to the inhabitants of two towns—Gahrovo and Panagurichite, stressing it more generously on the latter because of its weird and unpronounceable name.

On that account the parsimoniousness of either town has become proverbial. And they are dire rivals in that respect to this day.

In both localities men do not shave their beards, being too expensive a matter, but since them by various devices which make the beard stay smooth. In both towns families make use of but one spoon or fork, passing either of them around when taking their meals which they argue, saves extra labor, and what is more important, food lasts longer, as each member of the household thus must await another turn for a mouthful.

The aged people say that this method of eating prevents one from overeating, saves him from indigestion and many other stomach ailments, due, they assert, to the use of too many spoons, forks, knives, and too many dishes.

In both towns hats and shoes are considered a superfluous luxury, which may be resorted to only in winter and on holidays. And even on those occasions people often prefer carrying their hats and shoes in their hands to save tear and wear.

Million Miles Her Objective

Elderly Woman Traveller Expects To Make Real Record

An interesting old lady who can probably lay good claim to the title of world's champion traveller is Mrs. E. G. Munson of East Rockaway, Long Island, who has sailed from Montreal to add the Saguenay district to her list of places visited. Mrs. Munson has travelled close to 700,000 miles and at 72, hopes to bring her total to 1,000,000.

In all her travels, which include 53 trips across the Atlantic and 10 across the Pacific, Mrs. Munson has never encountered a severe storm nor an accident. She has tried almost every known method of transportation, including camels, elephants and rickshaws, but has never yet been injured by any of them.

One thing that could induce her to fly, she said, and that was an invitation from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to go up with him.

Mrs. Munson's trips are seldom planned in advance. She stays at home until the urge to travel comes, then she packs her trunks and is off. "I can get ready to go around the world in 24 hours," she said.

Mrs. Munson was somewhat at a loss to explain her wanderlust, as her ten brothers and sisters are all "stay-at-home bodies," but thought she might have inherited it from her ancestor, John Munson, an ancestor who in 1642 led a pilgrimage of Munsons to Massachusetts.

Looked The Part

He was a golfer who always played in his oldest clothes. One day he set out for the course, his clubs slung over his shoulder.

Walking down a street he saw a woman leaning over her garden gate, eyeing his approach anxiously.

"You're very late," she said, sharply, "so the dress you're wearing is late!" echoed the astonished golfer.

"Yes, late! You promised to sweep my chimneys at eight, and it's past nine o'clock now."

Around The World Cruise

Omard White Star Liner To Make Interesting Calls At Many Ports

Preliminary enquiries throughout America indicate that the 1935 Around the World Cruise of the Omard White Star liner Franconia will be well booked up. The Franconia will follow the route around the Southern Hemisphere as she has done during the past two seasons. The liner will leave New York on Saturday, Jan. 12, and sail south for her first port call at Kingston, Jamaica. Here there will be a drive to Spanish Town and other points of interest for passengers. Leaving Jamaica on the 16th the Franconia arrives at Panama on the 18th, calling at Cristobal. A daylight passage of the Panama Canal is made, with an auto drive to Colon, Ancon, Panama City and Old Panama.

The Franconia calls at San Pedro in California to allow Westerners to embark for the cruise and also to permit passengers to drive to Los Angeles, Hollywood, Beverly Hills and other famous California resorts.

On the Pacific the Franconia will call at the Hawaiian Islands, where two days will be spent from First Port. At the Hawaiian Islands, the Franconia will call at Honolulu, the Lave Tubes, the Kilauea Volcano, the Fern Forest, Diamond Head and Waikiki Beach. An unusual call will be made in the Society Islands at Fapeete (Tahiti). Here preparations are being made for entertainment and dancing by natives to amuse the passengers. Cook Islands will be visited two days later and there will be motor drive in the Island of Rarotonga, with native dancing at Avarua. Recalling the late Louis Stevenson, a visit will be made to Valima, his home in Apia in the Samoa Islands. Here a famous "Bivouac" or native dance will be performed in Apia.

The Franconia then sails on to the Fiji Islands, with a motor drive into the interior where there will be a visit to the famous Suva. The Franconia will also visit Australasia. Five days will be spent in New Zealand, commencing with a motor drive to Auckland. Two days inland tour to Rotorua and the famous Thermal district, with visits to Maori villages. Two days will be spent in Australia, with motor drives in and around Sydney, including a visit to the famous beaches, the New Bridge, Koala Bear Farm and the celebrated zoo. A special exhibition of boomerangs will be arranged at the native settlement of La Perouse. There will be an optional motor drive to Blue Mountains to Mount Victoria and the Jenolan Caves.

The Franconia finds the Franconia at Port Moresby (Papua) New Guinea. A visit to the Papuan village at Hahandana will include tribal dances and native games. Another unusual part of the call for the Franconia will be in the Lesser Sunda Islands with a motor drive to Bali. A day will be spent in Bali at Telok Padang with visits to temples and magnificent scenic points. There will be an exhibition here of native arts and crafts and Balinese dancing. Two days will be spent in Java. There will be an auto drive around Semarang to Batavia and Buitenzorg, viewing the famous Botanical Gardens.

The Franconia will call at Singapore, March 24. There will be visits to points of interest in the Malay Straits, the Botanical Gardens, for instance, and Penang Hill. The Franconia sails to South India, arriving at Madras on the 30th and calls at Ceylon early in April. There will be visits in and around Colombo and Mt. Lavinia, as well as to Kandy and the Botanical Garden. A unique part of call will be Port Victoria in the Seychelle Islands with a motor drive to the Islands of Mahe, where an exhibition of native arts and crafts has been arranged. Kenya Colony is next visited, with a call at Mombasa. A "nomad" or series of tribal dances will be performed at Kilindini. Next comes Zanzibar and Madagascar, visiting Majunga, one of the most interesting ports in the Indian Ocean. Three days will be spent in the Union of South Africa, with drives in and around Durban and an excursion to Pietermaritzburg. Port Elizabeth and Cape Town will be visited, with a motor drive to the mountains of Table Mountain and the Agulhas. The Franconia then makes a long voyage across the South Atlantic to Montevideo and in Uruguay and passengers may visit Buenos Aires by motor drive. Turning north the cruise liner arrives at Santos and Rio de Janeiro, where there will be visits to a snake farm in the former city and to the magnificent scenic points in the capital. The last part of the call of the Franconia will be at Barbados, arriving back in New York on Friday, May 31. She will have touched at 35 ports on her 139-day cruise, covering 1,070,000 miles. The Franconia is at present engaged on a series of cruises between New York and Cape Town, calling at Newfoundland, the Saguenay and Quebec.

Decline In Cheese Exports

Canada Is Losing Market Of United Kingdom

What has happened to Canada's exports of cheese to the market of the United Kingdom is clearly indicated in a statement of the Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa that during the first six months of the present year our shipments of cheese to that market actually fell to fifth place with only 30,842 cwt. being forwarded across the Atlantic. In contrast with this, New Zealand remained in first place in the British market with 1,318,700, Australia being second with 67,650, the Netherlands third with 51,990 and Italy fourth with 50,928. Two years ago, for the corresponding period, Canada was in third place, coming behind New Zealand and Holland, and prior to the war Canada's supply of cheese to Great Britain was more than double that of New Zealand.

A further statement of the Bureau reports that during the year 1933 Canada's production of factory cheese experienced a further drop, totalling 111,044,658 pounds, or eight per cent. The total value of the cheese made was $11,113,918, a decrease of two per cent, the average factory price per pound having advanced from 9.44 cents in 1932 to 9.54 cents in 1933. On the other hand, the production of creamery butter in the Dominion rose to 218,532,307 pounds, an increase over the preceding year of two per cent.

It is evident that Canada is continuing to lose her grip upon the British cheese market. The new killer was supreme, and if things continue at the present rate it will be only a matter of time before she has been swept off that market by the force of New Zealand's competition—Brookville Recorder and Times.

Discover New Rays

Eight Death-Dealing Rays Discovered By Woman Scientist

Eight death-dealing rays of ultra-violet light have been identified by Dr. Florence S. Meier, young woman scientist of the Smithsonian Institution.

The work completed by Miss Meier, hailed as a valuable addition to the important study of animal reactions to various rays, reveals the new killing rays as being a group of the normally beneficial violet ray group, which are known to cure rickets.

Humans would not be slain by the newly discovered rays, but they are certain death to green algae, the one-celled plants that grow in lakes and rivers.

Or Even A Horse

"Automobile owners will leave their vehicles unlooked with keys in hand and then complain to the police when someone borrows or steals them," remarks the St. Thomas Times-Journal. Well, why should it be necessary to lock a car, and not a horse and buggy? asks the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

A new machine demonstrates scientifically how sharp a razor blade is, how much it is dulled by use in shaving, and how successfully it can be resharpened.

OTTAWA DECIDES TO INVESTIGATE DROUGHT PROBLEM

Ottawa.—A party of four persons, government officials, two from the department of finance and two from agriculture, will confer with the government of Saskatchewan on ways and means to meet the problem of drought and farm relief.

Cabinet council wrestled with the Saskatchewan situation during two sessions and while no official statement was forthcoming it was learned the government had decided to place experienced men in that province for a period during which they will work with local government officials in an effort to ascertain in what manner assistance may be extended.

So far as could be learned no decision has yet been reached with respect to schemes involving the wholesale migration of farm communities to more northerly districts, and moves to bind and rejuvenate drifting top-soil by sowing a binding grass, and by forestation.

Even were it possible to find sufficient arable acreage in northern Saskatchewan upon which to locate the 40,000 families living in the dried-out areas of the south, it would mean at least $20,000,000 expenditure for a country already faced with a financial situation difficult to comprehend.

In addition to the Saskatchewan problem the same situation is said to exist in a lesser degree in the other two prairie provinces. What steps if any, will be taken by the way of reclaiming the dried-out prairie, and what fields remain to be decided after experiments being carried out by the department of agriculture have been completed.

Three prairie governments will seek the co-operation of the federal government to find an outlet for 125,000 surplus cattle from the three prairie provinces.

Of this number approximately 75,000 are in Saskatchewan, 20,000 in Manitoba and 30,000 in Alberta.

West Makes Clean Sweep

Creameries Capture Butter Awards At Canadian National Exhibition.

Toronto.—Western Canadian creameries made a clean sweep in the butter awards at the Canadian National Exhibition. St. Boniface Creamery of St. Boniface, Man., won the silver cup for the highest scoring creamery butter exhibited, being awarded 97.5 points for their entry in the section for a 56-pound box of salted butter. They also won the creamery, salted, 56-pound box with 97.5 points.

Swift Canadian Company, Ltd., of Neepawa, Man., was adjudged winners for a 14-pound box of salted creamery butter and 14-pound box of unsalted creamery butter with 97.3 points in each. Premier award in the class for salted creamery butter, 20 pounds in one-pound packages, went to the Manitoba Co-operative Dairies, WLNepel, with 97.3.

Other results with figures awarded for favor followed by total score and place in group:

Creamery, unsalted, box 14 lb.: Second prize group—Saskatoon Dairy Pool, Saskatoon, 41.8 (first place); Sask. Co-op. Creameries, Saskatoon, 41.8, 96.7 (fifth place). Creamery, salted, 14-lb. box: First prize group—Sask. Co-op. Creameries, Saskatoon, 42.0, 96.9 (eighth place). Third prize group—Saskatoon Dairy Pool, Saskatoon, 41.0, 96.7 (sixth place).

Favors Recommendation

Toronto.—Extension of the recommendation system to supplant examinations in the schools was urged by Duncan McArthur, deputy minister of education for Ontario. Responsibility for determining standing should be placed on those most intimate with the work of the students, he said.

Building Railway Line

Stewart, B.C.—Construction of the railway line of the Canadian Northern Eastern Railway from Stewart has been started under the charter granted the company, calling for an expenditure of $30,000 this year. The line is intended to run ultimately to Fort Grahame, B.C., about 250 miles.

Assistance For B.C.

Ottawa To Advance Funds For Relief Purposes

Victoria.—The Dominion government will assist British Columbia in the financing of direct relief to March 31, 1935, which will amount to approximately $2,800,000 in addition to the $1,200,000 grant from the federal government, John Hart, minister of finance, announced.

Mr. Hart returned here from Ottawa, where he spent several weeks negotiating for financial aid for the province.

Mr. Hart completed arrangements for a loan from the Dominion of $2,000,000 to meet a maturing obligation in New York and also for an advance of $375,000 on account of the deficit in the accounts of the last fiscal year.

He also negotiated a loan to the province of $1,000,000 for advances to municipalities unable to carry their share of direct relief.

Mr. Hart stated the Dominion has agreed that, on all the province's indebtedness to the Dominion, the interest rate will be 4 1/2 per cent. instead of 5 per cent., in line with a general fall in interest rates.

The minister said Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had agreed to loan the province $1,000,000 for a public works program as the result of representations made by Premier T. D. Pattullo for a loan of $5,000,000.

Sale Of Government Cars

Auction Sale In Toronto Stadium Nets About $75,000

Toronto.—The University of Toronto's stadium, scene of many famous gridiron struggles, was thronged with a crowd of more than 5,000 to witness the Hephburn government's wholesale auction of automobiles used by officials and ministers of the former Henry government.

When the noise had died away and the auctioneers had completed their task, 87 cars had been disposed of at a sum aggregating about $75,000.

A large sedan that carried former Premier George H. Henry of Ontario a bit more than 48,000 miles was sold for $1,500.

Before the sale, 15 cars were withdrawn for use of the department of health, leaving the total number to go to the block at 87.

As the former premier's car was hoisted onto an elevated runway, Auctioneer M. Moore of Aylmer, Ont., exhorted the crowd to bid up, saying: "You will be proud to tell your grandchildren you bought the first government car sold at public auction, the car of Premier Henry."

There were numerous shouts of "ex-premier."

An expensive, but six-year-old car in which the late Hon. E. A. Duncanson used to ride was sold for $600. It has travelled 70,093 miles. A 1930 model of a less expensive car went for $400. It has done 115,307 miles.

Demand Tax Rate Cut

Edmonton Taxpayers Threaten Strike Unless Rate Is Reduced

Edmonton.—Edmonton taxpayers took up arms against their city administration in a mass meeting at which every one of the 1,480 participants had to produce assessment notice to gain admission, decided on a tax strike unless expenditures are cut and a tax rate of 50 mills adopted. Redistribution of taxation liability and drastic cut in expenditures are demanded.

Edmonton's tax rate now stands at 64 mills, one of the highest in Canada.

A Woman President

Predicts A Woman Will Head U.S. Government Within A Generation

Chicago.—A woman president of the United States within a generation was predicted by Miss Lillian D. Rock, secretary of the National Association of Women Lawyers.

"I expect that within my own lifetime some brilliant woman will make her way from the ballot box to the presidency," she told the association's annual convention.

"All of our country's presidents have gone forth from women. What is to prevent woman herself from going forth to occupy this exalted post?"

Must Have Data

Edmonton.—Data will have to be obtained from other provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba before there can be a final announcement concerning the movement of settlers northward from drought areas, states acting Premier Hoadley. The minister said that full information concerning the Alberta problem had been submitted to the Ottawa authorities.

Fear Five Men Drowned

Thrown Into Columbia River When Cable On Clogs Breaks

Revelstoke, B.C.—Hope has been given up that there were any survivors among the five men who were thrown into the Columbia river when the cable of a cage in which they were crossing the stream broke.

One man of six in the cable cage, Roy Palmer of Winnipeg, reached shore and two others were seen struggling 400 yards down the rushing water, but apparently they did not reach safety.

The men were employed in the re-leaf camp at 10-mile on the Big Bend highway, and were amusing themselves on their off-work Sunday in taking an exciting ride across the river.

GRANT HALL, VICE-PRESIDENT C.P.R. DIES IN MONTREAL

Montreal.—A career intimately associated with the opening up of Western Canada was ended here by the death of Grant Hall, 70, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Hall was taken to hospital Aug. 11 suffering from a stroke. His condition at first improved and gave hope he might recover, but he failed rapidly and his physician warned the end was near.

Although he was a native of Montreal and although he returned here to occupy the high railway post he held at his death, it was chiefly on the western lines that his capacity as an executive was developed.

He began his railroad career with the Canadian Pacific Railway as a fitter. In 1886, he joined the old Intercolonial railway as a general locomotive foreman, stationed at Moncton, N.B.

In 1898 he was again in the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway and held the position of general foreman at McAdams, N.B. Shortly after the turn of the century he went west as general foreman in Winnipeg.

In 1902 he went to Revelstoke, B.C., as master mechanic, then returned to Montreal as assistant superintendent of rolling stock, eastern division.

In 1904 he became superintendent of motive power, western lines, and in 1908 was made superintendent of motive power for the company.

From 1911 to 1912 he was the company's assistant general manager and in 1913 became general manager for western lines at Winnipeg. Two years later he was made vice-president and general manager at Winnipeg.

The position he held at his death, vice-president with jurisdiction over all lines, was his since 1918.

He was credited with having a thorough knowledge of all railroad problems, and was noted for his ability to avoid friction of all kinds and was known as a hard worker.

Mr. Hall held the affection of his men and was frequently chosen for the company's representative in arbitrating with the railroad unions.

He was born here Nov. 7, 1863. He married Mary E. Haley and had a son, William Hall, and a daughter, Madeline Hall. He was educated at Bishop's college, Lennoxville, Que., and entered railroad work shortly after.

He was a member of several clubs including the Manitoba club, Winnipeg, and Vancouver club, Vancouver, and the Rideau club, Ottawa.

Billions For War

Fabulous Sum Spent In Europe For Armaments

London.—Quandrit the "eventual war" will be fought at high speed, the world is glooming fast iron soldiers to do the job.

While London and Paris army men tended to differ with the opinion Italian military authorities expressed to the effect that trench warfare was obsolete, Great Britain and France nevertheless went forward with Italy in efforts to speed up movements of troops.

The League of Nations' armament yearbook published at Geneva estimated that the world spent between $3,471,000,000 and $4,399,000,000 gold for armaments in 1933.

A great part of this, army men agreed, went for tanks, aircraft and other fast fighting machines designed to wage war at maximum velocity.

While willing to admit the speed of highly mechanized modern armies would radically affect the old stalemate of trench warfare, French military leaders said they still believed trench warfare would continue to play an important part in warfare and held to their theory the infantry is still the backbone of an army.

The French intended to test transportation of troops by aeroplanes in air manoeuvres.

Great Britain's conviction that another war in Europe would be more open led to the creation this summer of the first permanent tank brigade.

May Become Permanent

Ontario Government Likely To Abandon Farm Loans Policy

Toronto.—The Mail and Empire says early abandonment of Ontario's farm loans policy is rumored at Queen's Park.

The paper adds: Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario minister of agriculture, is reported to be fearful of collecting anything like the $50,000,000 which the province has now out with the farmers and for that reason is said, on command to office, to have ordered the suspension which now, to all appearances, may become permanent.

If the present policy is abandoned, the paper says, it is likely the entire staff of the agricultural development board, including W. Bert Roadhouse, chairman, will be dispensed with and only a bare skeleton of the organization retained.

New Mining Company

Has Been Incorporated

Capitalized At Ten Millions And Will Promote Gold Production

Toronto.—Canadian Gold and Metals Mining Company, Limited, with authorized capital of $10,000,000, has been incorporated and will launch into the mining field shortly to promote gold production and to provide a medium for investment in mining securities.

Fifty per cent., or $5,000,000, of the company's capital is to be invested in dividend paying mining stocks, listed on a recognized exchange, or government bonds. Twenty per cent. is to be invested chiefly in mining stocks listed on an exchange but not necessarily dividend paying, and the remaining 30 per cent. is for speculative purposes.

Among the directors are Sir Henry Drayton, K.C.; Hon. W. D. Ross, J. W. Hobbs, E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and David Sloan, of Vancouver.

May Abrogate Treaty

Japan Will Not Adhere To Washington Treaty Unless New Plan Is Adopted

Tokyo.—Japan will abrogate the Washington naval treaty of 1922 unless other satisfactory powers "give evidences of favorable consideration to a new scheme for limitation of armaments which Japan will propose," a foreign office spokesman announced.

The spokesman indicated the proposal would be made during London discussions preliminary to the 1935 naval conference and that the attitude of the powers during and after this conference would be closely watched.

BETROTHAL OF PRINCE GEORGE IS ANNOUNCED

London.—The betrothal of Prince George, Edward, fourth son of the king and queen, to the beautiful Princess Marina of Greece was announced in the court circular.

"It is with the greatest pleasure," the announcement said, "that the king and queen announce the betrothal of their dearly-beloved son, Prince George, to Princess Marina, daughter of Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece, to which union the king has gladly given his consent."

An acquaintance that dated back five years to the young couple's first meeting in London ripened into romance in a Balkan setting, the picturesque Slovenian Alps of Yugoslavia, London understood. There the prince and princess have been staying at the summer home of Prince Paul of Yugoslavia.

The prince will be 32 on December 20. Princess Marina is 27.

The princess has inherited all the beauty and charm of her Russian mother and the pleasing qualities of her father, a brother of the late King Constantine of Greece.

The prince will be the third of the children of the reigning house to marry. His only sister, Princess Mary, the princess royal, was married in 1922 to Viscount Lascelles (now the Earl of Harewood). Their Majesties' second son, the Duke of York, was married in 1923 to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon.

The Prince of Wales, heir to the throne, meantime remains a bachelor. He passed his 40th birthday last June.

It was understood no plans whatsoever have yet been made for the marriage.

The prince, next to the Prince of Wales, is best known of the royal children in Canada. As an officer on H.M.S. Durban in 1928 he visited various British Columbia cities.

The tall, blue-eyed handsome prince and his fiancée have many tastes in common.

Among them is love for music. The prince is an accomplished pianist while the princess has been schooled as an amateur musician.

The princess also likes dancing and shooting, and is an amateur of which Prince George, as well, is very fond.

A thoroughly modern girl in every respect, the young Grecian princess likewise engages enthusiastically in outdoor sports, her horsemanship calculated to endure her to England's sport-loving people.

The princess was educated in Athens, Paris and London, and speaks fluent French, English, Greek, Russian and German.

RUST-RESISTANT WHEAT SOON TO BE AVAILABLE

Toronto.—F. C. Nunnick, director of publicity for the Dominion agriculture department, intimated discovery of a rust-resistant wheat was not far off and he added information on the matter would be released soon.

As soon as it has been proven beyond all doubt the variety of wheat would resist rust, the information would be made known, he declared.

"We have been working on it for a number of years," he said, "but we expect to be able to give it to the western farmers soon."

He declared the department results in the task "are very encouraging" and it remained only to be proven "over a long period of time."

"Beyond that I can say nothing more at the present time," he declared.

Such a type of wheat would mean millions of dollars to the western farmer whose crops have suffered from rust.

Mr. Nunnick said the department also was working on a type of wheat that would combat saw-fly attacks. With a solid stemmed wheat, he added, the saw-fly would be unable to bore into it.

Drouth Problem

President Beatty of C.P.R. Opposed To Moving Settlers From South

Moore Jaw.—"The problem of the drought areas in southern Saskatchewan cannot be solved by moving the people to other parts of the province. This would be unfair to the people involved, unfair to the drought areas and a great mistake for the province," said E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, in an interview here.

"The solution of the problem lies rather in the governments standing by the farmer with required assistance to bring them through the emergency, coupled with soil conservation on lands adapted to grain growing, and the development of grazing land for grazing purposes; and a policy of water development and conservation for use on the farms," Mr. Beatty said.

By water conservation and development, Mr. Beatty explained, he did not mean large schemes for irrigation works, which experience in this country had shown to be too expensive for the returns possible, but rather the development of adequate water supplies for farm use, including stock grazing.

France Is Worried

U.S. Move Has Made Economic Problems More Acute

Paris.—France's fear of a "50-cent dollar" grew following the speech of Henry Morgenthau, American secretary of the treasury, which was nervously interpreted here as forecasting further inflation.

The dollar weakened here, but a major part of the trouble was caused by belief that the pound was likely to follow, thus fanning an already hot devaluation campaign in France.

As the gap between world prices and high gold prices is widened, both supporters and opponents of the pound have agreed that French financial and economic problems have been made more acute.

London.—Financial London discussed with interest the Washington speech of United States secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau, and could find no signs of inflation in details of the address called here. Financial writers stressed the point that if gold profits are to be used to write off indebtedness that is the "reverse" of inflation.

Project Not Justified

This Is Opinion Of Mining Engineer Regarding Northern Railway

North Bay, Ont.—Arthur A. Cole, mining engineer of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, told Commissioner Armand Racine he did not believe mineral deposits along the railway were of sufficient value to justify construction of the road from Cochrane to Moosonee on James Bay.

Mr. Cole was testifying before Mr. Racine's inquiry into the working of the railway. He said construction of 156 miles of railway between the two points had cost $12,138,649 and that fur trade and tourist traffic are the chief business possibilities of the Moosonee area.

Annual operating deficit was $647,000.

SCENE OF $127,000 HOLD-UP

In the foreground is seen the push-cart which concealed the machine gun used by the Brooklyn bandits who made the biggest cash haul in North America; the large car is the armored automobile held up by the gangsters. The police are shown questioning witnesses.

Constraining Forces

Rev. T. Edgar Armstrong, B.A., B.D.

Text 2 Cor. 5:14. For the love of Christ constraineth us.

My subject is constraining forces.

I have in mind those facts which compel us to act in a particular way. When we analyze character and conduct, many terms are used.

Perhaps we never stop to differentiate. We speak of want, need, desire, wish, intention, and motive. We may group them and use them as if they were synonymous. There is a slight difference in meaning.

I want food when I am hungry but if the providing of food for my hunger fits me for higher service than I had need of it. Desire is related to that higher service I desire food so that noble ends might be reached. The desire which predominates is my wish. Now it is not my purpose to define further. I purpose to speak particularly of motives for I feel that our motives play a large part in our moral conduct. It is the motive which determines the moral value of an act. A motive may be understood to mean that which either impels or induces us to act in a particular way. What induces us to perform an act is always something we expect to achieve by it.

There may be the message that we know will be achieved by it, which would not serve as an inducement to its performance. The motive of a reformer may be that of improving the life of humanity, correcting error, or bringing in better social conditions, but he is aware that he immediately results if his action will be to imperil life. So we have to distinguish between the results and the objects of a reform movement.

We judge by results rather than by the objective or aim. In that we err.

The names of Wilberforce and Lincoln are associated with the struggle for freedom for the slaves.

That was their objective but we are aware of the bitter battle that was fought before the goal was reached.

Jesus came to bring the message of love and peace and yet the anticipated a certain amount of strife and confusion as a result of His action.

The father would rise against the

son and the son against the father:
the mother against the daughter

and the daughter against the mother.
Other relationships are mentioned.

If the reformer clearly sees that such results ensue from his action

we can scarcely say that he did not intend them. He deliberately accepts them as inevitably involved in the good results he wishes to achieve.

Generally speaking the motive of that which determines the moral value of an act. Let us always judge acts and words spoken in that light.

Many things are put forth as motives for action, utility, pleasure, monetary gain, self-interest. Paul states that a great constraining

force had taken hold of him and that that power was the Love of Christ.

Having defined and discussed motive,
permit me to mention influences things spiritual. Each deed is prompted by some motive and that gives it moral worth.

There is a motive in attending church in uniting with the church

partaking of the sacraments, contributing to its support. There is a motive in reading a sermon. Let us make it possible for us to receive the highest good, the greatest blessing, because we have the purest

and worthiest motive.

I might flip a coin and hit the poor beggar on the head. The coin

might buy him food but the act
have little moral value.

May we make worship and service potent by pure motives. The motive of experiencing his presence and power and as a result serve

His purpose most worthily.

The first motive desire to discuss is a sense of fear. Many have been constrained through a sense of fear.

That note is repeatedly sounded in

the Old Testament. "Fear b'fore
Him, Let all the earth fear O fear

the Lord, ye His Saints." Hear the condemnation of the whole matter "Fear

God and keep His commandments." In the New Testament this note occasionally sounded. Jesus recognized the grip fear had upon life and cautioned about whom they should fear. "Not him who can kill the body, but who can destroy the soul."

We find this note in Christian literature. In Bunyan's Pilgrim we see the terrors of Hell playing an important part. Many recall preachers who tried to terrify people into the Kingdom. I remember a former parishioner who frequently told me of my predecessors who put the fear of the Lord into people. I found as large a percentage of sinners there as in other towns in which I have lived. Some people want that kind of preaching today.

Fear may be of two types. A slavish fear which regards God as a master, a big tyrant, who is anxious to punish men. Jesus warns

Him off and pleads and intreats Him to exercise mercy. If we teach children such a conception they will love Jesus but distrust God. Such should never happen.

Or we may have a filial type of fear. The child fears the parent, not in terms of dread but of respect.

He recognizes that parents are are a law and knows that violation means disapproval. As he develops he sees these laws exist for his good and are not the whim of a parent.

He discovers that there is a social but there may be the message that we know will be achieved by it, which

would not serve as an inducement

to its performance. The motive of a reformer may be that of improving

the life of humanity, correcting
error, or bringing in better social conditions, but he is aware that he immediately results if his action will be to imperil life. So we have to distinguish between the results and

the objects of a reform movement.
We judge by results rather than by the objective or aim. In that we err.

The names of Wilberforce and Lincoln are associated with the struggle for freedom for the slaves.

That was their objective but we are aware of the bitter battle that was fought before the goal was reached.

Jesus came to bring the message of love and peace and yet the antici-ipated a certain amount of strife and confusion as a result of His action.

The father would rise against the
son and the son against the father:

the mother against the daughter
and the daughter against the mother.

Other relationships are mentioned.

If the reformer clearly sees that
such results ensue from his action

we can scarcely say that he did not intend them. He deliberately accepts

them as inevitably involved in the good results he wishes to achieve.

Generally speaking the motive of that which determines the moral

value of an act. Let us always judge
acts and words spoken in that light.

Many things are put forth as
motives for action, utility, pleasure,

monetary gain, self-interest. Paul
states that a great constraining

force had taken hold of him and that
that power was the Love of Christ.

Having defined and discussed motive,
permit me to mention influences

things spiritual. Each deed is prompted by some motive and that gives it moral worth.

There is a motive in attending
church in uniting with the church

partaking of the sacraments, contributing to its support. There is a motive in reading a sermon. Let us make it possible for us to receive the highest good, the greatest blessing, because we have the purest

and worthiest motive.

I might flip a coin and hit the poor beggar on the head. The coin

might buy him food but the act
have little moral value.

May we make worship and service potent by pure motives. The motive of experiencing his presence

and power and as a result serve

His purpose most worthily.

The first motive desire to discuss
is a sense of fear. Many have been constrained through a sense of fear.

That note is repeatedly sounded in

the Old Testament. "Fear b'fore
Him, Let all the earth fear O fear

the Lord, ye His Saints." Hear the condemnation of the whole matter "Fear

God and keep His commandments." In
the New Testament this note occasionally sounded. Jesus recognized the grip fear had upon life and cautioned about whom they should fear. "Not him who can kill the body, but who can bers of the militia, they were trained for it and knew it their duty. The country called and they were expected to go. The volunteer enlisted and love of country impelled. What are the respective values of these?

All did good service but the volunteer had a buoyancy others could not possess.

This illustrates the different influences which may animate men even in the moral field. May we rise to the plane where love is the atmosphere. Love for Christ for men and for His service. The greater graces are incorporated into our character in that atmosphere.

It is not back to Christ but forward with Him. He meets the needs of our hearts and in the constraint of His love, His objectives we attain the highest. "The love of Christ constraineth me."

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

President Roosevelt has received a report saying employment in United States has increased 4,130,000 since he took office.

Dr. J. A. MacArthur, 86, pioneer leader of the medical profession in Manitoba for more than half a century, died recently in Winnipeg.

Extension of the recommendation system to supplement examinations in the schools was urged by Duncan MacArthur, deputy minister of education for Ontario.

Veteran of both the Boer war and the Great War and former Arctic trader, Major M. Montague Mardell, 62, is dead at Vancouver from a heart infection.

The Australian cabinet considered British protests against the new import duties on Lancashire textiles and ruled the tariffs are to be maintained.

The Indian government's ban on flying over the northwest frontier will lengthen the London to Melbourne air line in October by 1,000 miles.

Henri Gagnon, Quebec, president of the Canadian Press, and managing director of the newspaper Le Soleil, has been elevated to the rank of an officer of the Legion of Honor of France.

Persia has informed the League of Nations it will stand as a candidate for China's seat in the assembly. China's mandate expires this year and Persia considers itself qualified to represent Asia.

Captains of Great Lakes steamers may low water levels in the lakes have uncovered rocks and sandbars, and cargoes have had to be considerably reduced from other seasons. Vessels have grounded in places previously considered safe, they declared, and the captains had to stay on the bridge continuously.

Cheap Television Sets

New System Developed Promises Sets At Low Cost

A new system invented by Mr. R. W. Hughes, of Plymouth, England, may result soon in the production of cheap television sets for all.

Mr. Hughes said he thought a television receiver, built with light source and amplifier, could be mass produced to sell at $10 or less.

With his somewhat crudely constructed apparatus, Mr. Hughes is able to project a 100-line picture on a screen two feet square.

A system of vibrating mirrors causes a small but instant spot of light to travel over the screen and form the images.

Mr. Hughes is also developing an apparatus which, he claims, overcomes the problem of synchronizing—one of the chief difficulties of television—and also holds the picture steady for considerable periods.

Firms in this country as well as in Germany and the United States have been interested in the invention, and it is said, that successful negotiations have been concluded with a British company.

Mr. Hughes has been working for nearly two years on his new apparatus and has built a special transmitter to test his receiving apparatus at any time.

Must Be Improved

Canada Must Have Better Hogs To Capture Market

The Canadian farmer lost $12,000,000 in 1933 by reason of the fact Danish hogs were better than Canadian hogs, J. S. McLean, president of Canada Packers, says in the annual report. Unless Canadian hogs are improved, he said, the same amount will be lost each year.

"The securing of this $12,000,000 lies in the hands of the Canadian farmer," he continued. "He alone can do the job. And if it is done, he will reap the entire benefit." The "certain lack of confidence" existing between the farmer and the packer was due chiefly to the farmer.

Stay Was Uncertain

A social worker on her first visit to a prison was greatly impressed by the sorrowful attitude of one man she found. "My poor man," she sympathized, "what is the length of time you'll spend here?"

"All depends on politics, lady," replied the mournful one. "I'm the warden."

The first merry-go-round at Coney Island was introduced by the grandfather of George Raft.

Seven thousand stars can be seen by a person with average sight.

The White Sea Canal

Has Provided Leningrad With Cheaper Means Of Transport
One of the most revolutionary accomplishments of the Soviet Union is the construction of the White Sea Canal connecting the Baltic and the White Sea. Heretofore Russia had two water routes leading to Europe—one by way of the Black Sea, the other by way of the Baltic—and both could be blocked.

Now, however, Leningrad can no longer be shut off from the outer world by blockade of the Baltic, for ships of commerce or war can make their way northward by the new canal to the White Sea and sail around Sweden and Norway. Not only will Leningrad become more important, but a district rich in phosphates, iron ore and lumber will be able to ship its products far more economically than ever before.

Nobleman Runs Coffee Stall

Duke Of Manchester's Son Hopes To Start Chain

Lord Edward Montagu, second son of Duke of Manchester, the London Express said, is running an outdoor refreshment stall at Maldenhead, famous Thames riverside resort where there are many country clubs.

His "coffee stall" is mounted on the chassis of an automobile, from which he serves coffee, other soft drinks, sausages and sandwiches. Most of his patronage is from taxi drivers and chauffeurs who bring clubmen to Maldenhead from London. Lord Edward, who is 28 and a former rancher in the Canadian west, told a reporter he started his business with £1 (about $5) in cash and made $4 within 24 hours. He hopes to start a chain of stalls, he asserted.

Pirates Bold

Are Now Incorporated Into The Chinese Army

The pirates are soldiers now. Thus has fate dealt with the 60 Chinese marine marauders who were promised a firing squad for creating an international incident two months ago. The pirates boldly commanded the British steamer Shuntien and kidnapped six British subjects and 18 Chinese.

The pirates were frightened into freeing their captives and lost most of the loot they unloaded from the steamer. But the pay-off "is that they have been taken into the Shantung provincial army."

"They were sincere in their desire to surrender and become soldiers," explained Han Fu-Chu, governor of the province, who consented to make the pirates part of his army. A "sweeping search" for the kidnappers was ordered when both Great Britain and the United States became aroused.

Bahamas Islands Are Taking More Goods From Canada

The Bahamas have become one of Canada's best customers. Imports from the Dominion now ranking fifth place. The total value of goods bought from Canada is $1,306,790, an increase of 5.5 per cent. over the previous year. Practically all the potatoes used there come from Canada. Canada is also the chief supplier of butter, flour, oats, condensed milk, rubber and canvas boots and shoes. Last year the United States supplied automobiles to these islands to the value of $13,435 and Canada $12,280.

Your Handwriting Reveals Your Character!

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of fascinating articles on this very interesting subject of Character Reading from Handwriting. The author, a well-known handwriting expert, has an interesting announcement to make following this article.)

The astrologer who looks at the stars, predicts your future from the palm, the soothsayer who peers into the globe and tells your fortune; the palmist who scrutinizes the hand for the tell-tale lines it shows; the phrenologist who searches your head for the revelations it discloses, down to the ever-popular amateur at the tea-table who focuses on the tea-leaves—all have their followers who swear by them.

And, marching a path that is built on solid scientific deduction, the Grapho-Analyst is gaining an ever-increasing body of adherents who find his analyses of character often times sensationally accurate. Grapho-Analysis, the science of character delineation from handwriting—what is it really?

Robert Saudek, the famous European cryptologist, says: "There is no such thing as handwriting, but only brainwriting." This is because the impulses and motive power come from the brain. Writing is but mere muscular action. If you think it is, try to write a letter without reading a book!

The Physicians' Times Magazine some time ago made the statement that "the nerves at the extreme finger-tips are extraordinarily sensitive, and traces of grey matter, similar to that in the brain, may be found."

Throughout the world, Grapho-Analysis is gaining recognition as a practical science. In a number of European universities and colleges the subject is being studied as a regular part of the curriculum. In the everyday affairs of life it is finding increasing application.

Business men, teachers and doctors are using it to supplement their own specialized knowledge. Indeed, many of the largest commercial undertakings in the world submit to grapho-analysis the handwriting of applicants for important positions; it is being used more and more frequently in criminal and civil courts, and even lawyers, hesitating before stepping off the brink of matrimony, consult a Grapho-Analyst for an analysis of the handwriting of their intended bride or bridegroom.

Do you want a personal analysis of your handwriting? Do you want to know what your friend's handwriting tells? A character analysis may open the doors of opportunity to you, and certainly, it will astonish you with its revelations of character and talents. ### HEZEKIAH LEADS HIS PEOPLE BACK TO GOD

Golden text: "God is gracious and merciful." II. Chronicles 30:9.

Lesson: II. Chronicles Chapter 30.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 72:1-6.

Explanations And Comments

Ritual Was Made for Man and Not Man for Ritual, verses 24-25. "Everything regarding form is elastic in the interests of the soul." Nisan, the first month of the year, corresponding to our month of April, was the regular time for keeping the Passover, but in the reign of Hezekiah it could not be kept at that time, because a sufficient number of the priests had not sacrificed themselves (undergone certain washings, ablutions and forms), nor had the people assembled at Jerusalem, owing to the fact that the temple was not cleansed until the fourteenth day of Nisan, and the fourteenth day was the time for beginning the Passover. Accordingly, the king had taken counsel and his princes, and all the assembly in Jerusalem, to keep the Passover in the second month. The law (Numbers 9:10, 11) allowed those who for good reasons were prevented from observing the Passover at the regular time to celebrate it in the second month, and the thing was right in the eyes of the king and all the assembly. Dr. Charles Reynolds Brown contrasts Hezekiah's broadminded action with the narrowness of the priests and Pharisees who insist upon putting Jesus Christ to death upon the cross another feast of the Passover, and who would not venture into Pilate's judgment hall lest their holy feet should suffer defilement and make them unfit to share in the sacred feast of the Jewish Church.

The Royal Proclamation to Judah and Israel, verses 1 and 15. So a decree was issued for every one, from Shechem to Dan, to come to Jerusalem and keep the Passover. The customary phrase for the length of the reign of a king is "Dan to Beersheba"; the chronicler, however, in writing the history of Judah naturally mentions the southern city first. A reform was needed, for they had not kept the Passover in great numbers in such sort as it is written: see Exodus 12:6. Local sanctuaries had been established throughout the land (2 Kings 18:4); Hezekiah would re-establish the supreme importance of the temple, so he wrote letters to all Israel and Judah and sent them by the hands of the post and couriers. His message was: "Ye children of Israel, turn again unto Jehovah, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and keep the Passover, as reference to the Hebrew fathers is common in the Old Testament, and to remind the people of God's favor to them in the past, that he may return to the remnant that are escaped of you out of the hands of the kings of Assyria. The Assyrian invasion of Samaria had but recently happened and Hezekiah urged that they had not been carried away into captivity nor to bring upon themselves the punishment of the fathers. "Be not stiff-necked as your fathers were, but yield yourselves unto Jehovah, and enter into his sanctuary," he counselled.

Little Journeys In Science

INSECTS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)
Insects are our greatest friends—and our greatest enemies. Some aid man and some harm him. Once in the history of the earth it appeared as if they might inherit the earth and gain control of it. Scientists have counted 340,000 different kinds of insects that are living to-day. Of this vast number man has domesticated and used the products of the labor of only one—the honeybee.

It is of interest to know that an insect that can crawl through the eye of a needle has a little heart and other organs. Insects reverse man's method and wear their skeletons outside. They are without lungs but air gets to every part of their bodies through a large number of microscopic tubes. This system of obtaining air works so efficiently that it is doubted whether an insect's blood is ever impure.

In regard to intelligence, many an insect has more brainpower, in proportion to its weight, than have human beings. A spider is a very expert bridge-builder. In Texas are found ants which clear the ground around their hills of all plants except those that produce such seeds as it wishes to eat. Bees have, in proportion to their weight much more intelligence than man. House-flies are not noted for their brain power but they are experts with their wings, which they flap 330 times a second; bumblebees, 240; wasps, 110; dragon-flies, 28; and butterflies, 9.

Among the most useful insects is the bee, which supplies honey, and in some countries produces bees for the support of human life. Silkworms furnish material for clothing, and their culture is an important industry in many countries. The common wood ant is used extensively in Europe for the manufacture of vinegar. The cochineal insects supply a valuable coloring material, while even the grub is used as a food in the West Indies.

Among the insects which are most harmful to man may be included the Hessian fly, potato bug, chinch bug, army worm, cotton boll weevil, cutworm, the moth and grasshopper, all of which attack growing crops.

University Trained Airmen

Oxford And Cambridge Pilots Join Royal Air Force

Britain is securing many hundreds of airplanes to defences, and there is plenty of evidence that no matter how many may be ordered in the future, there will be no lack of skilled pilots ready to take charge of them at once. The Royal Air Force has a flying club, besides which, the universities of Oxford and Cambridge have their own squadrons. Only 75 men can be trained at each, and there are always long waiting lists for vacancies.

Every year these squadrons undergo a period of attachment to the Royal Air Force at regular R.A.F. airbases, and function as fully qualified military pilots. At the end of the last term of the year, the Cambridge and Oxford squadrons, having done 15,000 flying hours without anything more than minor mishaps, indicating the skill of the instructional staff and the quality of the machines.

Students are taught "blind" and ordinary flying. There is a mark of 100 points to aim at, 40 being for general proficiency, 30 for aerobatics or "stunt" flying, and 30 for forced landings.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A violinist was very much disappointed with the account of his recital printed in the paper of a small town.

"I told you three times," complained the musician to the owner of the paper, "that the instrument I used was a genuine Stradivarius, and in this story there was not a word about it, not a word."

"That is as it should be. When the Stradivarius Company advertises their fiddles in my paper, under 10 cents a line, you can come round and tell me about it."

Not What He Meant

Two English tourists were standing gazing at Niagara Falls, when there came a man in a paper, who said: "Isn't it marvelous?"

"Very magnificent." To stand here makes a man feel like a little grub."

"You're right," replied the other. "I've had nothing to eat since breakfast yesterday."

Young Farmer: "What happened to those oat puddings you made yesterday, Jane?"
Young Wife: "As you didn't like them, I gave them to the ducks."

Father: "What's the matter with your ducks have gone—they're sunk!"

REDUCING MADE HER LOOK YOUNGER

A Burden of Fat Gone

Here is another case where the trim, slim figure of youth has displaced the coarse, fat outline of old age. It is a broadcaster's wife. She says:

"I cannot say what weight I was, but I was very fat—burden to myself. I have taken three bottles of Kruschen Salts, and now I am quite slender. I am over 35, with people take me for 40. I am more than proud of myself. You can take it from me that every word of this is true. I took a teaspoonful in hot water every morning till I had three bottles. Now I only use half a tea-spoonful each morning. I cannot recommend the Kruschen Salts enough, for they are worth their weight in gold."—Mrs. A. H. Kruschen.

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By EDNA ROSE WEBSTER
Author of "Jettie," "Lipstick Girl" etc.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is an adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. After a party at an exclusive club, when the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the party, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Camilla urges Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses and they quarrel. Camilla has gone from the studio. Avis Werth calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $2,000. Peter fishes his exhibit and asks Avis and Camilla for suggestions as to a name for it. Camilla suggests "Eager Youth" and Avis "Inspiration." Peter adopts the latter title and Camilla, heartily, goes to Peter's studio for quiet and to think. Peter and Avis follow later, and the lights are turned on. Camilla's statue has been shattered to pieces. Avis accuses Camilla of doing this, and Camilla, stunned by the disaster, hurt and horrified by the accusation, faints.

At Camilla's suggestion, Peter enters as his exhibit a statue he had sculptured especially for her as a wedding gift. They named it "Land of Hope."

and Tiny Tots broadcast was a great success, and Mr. Hoyt expressed his pleasure and surprise on learning that Camilla was an author and artist who was so ably stimulating business for his company.

Peter's exhibit was awarded the Paris scholarship, and he prepares for his journey to France. After the ship's departure from New York, he is on his way to his cabin when he meets Avis Werth. During the voyage Avis tells Peter that Camilla smashed his scholarship exhibit in a fit of temper, and he believes her.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER LIX

Camilla did not recognize her visitor for a moment, so long had it been since their last meeting. But after an instant, she recalled his name. "Oh—Mr. Matson, good afternoon."

He extended his hand, even before he offered hers in greeting, like the clumsy make-believe gentleman that he was. The very same—Camilla. But you look well. His frank glance admired her from head to heel. "And no wonder! Didn't you just go in a rocket to success? What do you think, I listen to every one of your broadcasts?"

She smiled reservedly. "It's nice to know that someone listens in. But why should you be interested in children's stories?"

"I'm not. I listen just to hear your voice."

Her manner became more aloof. "Is that what you came here to tell me? If it is, I'm frightfully busy, Mr. Matson."

"Oh, see here, little fireworks, don't you get so peevish over a little thing like that. No, I came here to tell you something that I think you might like to hear. How about it?"

"Well?" she waited.

"I just heard the other day that they accused you of destroying Peter's exhibit piece."

"Well—I didn't. And Peter knows that."

"Wasn't it that clawfoot cat, Avis Werth, who accused you of it?"

"What difference does it make if she did?"

"I just thought she might be able to convince him that you did."

"That's a silly thing to bring up now. Peter is on his way to Paris, as you well know."

"So is Avis—and on the same boat," he watched her face closely for the effect, and was gratified with the result.

She grew alarmingly white, as if she had been struck a terrific blow. Her head reeled sickeningly. But she rallied almost instantly and managed to reply bravely. "That's a strange coincidence, isn't it? At least, Peter will have pleasant company on a slow voyage."

"Lord, you're a brick, Camilla. I know how that gets you. You can't fool me. That is why I came here to help you. I've always been a crazy about you and can't bear to see you get a raw deal. Want to know who destroyed the statue?"

She hesitated for a moment. "It would be rather a relief to have the mystery solved."

"Well—I did it."

Her startled eyes met his with amazement. "You? But why—why should you confess it to me?"

"One at a time, if you're going to give me the third degree," he held up his hand in mock protest. "First, I've come here to give you a square deal. Reason given above. Next, I did it for two reasons: for revenge on Peter for a former little incident which you may recall, and to increase the possibility of my own success. There was no doubt that he was one of my best rivals. That eliminated his chances, I thought, and increased mine by one. The results proved that I was right there. I was the Nels Nelson whose 'Flight' was second and lost the scholarship. So Peter was my best rival, even with a substitute entry." He laughed harshly. "I may even have bettered his chances by what I did, and hurt my own. Well, he won. Oh, yes—one thing more. You will wonder how I did it. I slipped up there and into his studio that night of the party, and was listening in the lower hall when you were discovered there. I thought it was a lucky break for me." He panted.

"But I still don't understand why you are telling me. No one ever suspected you. Don't you know that I could have you arrested?"

"You won't," he said confidently. "Neither would Peter. After all, I have to admit that he's one swell guy. Besides, he won, didn't he? What's his kick? That group probably had more kick in it than a dozen 'Inspirations.' But there is more to my story, girls. Not only did I put Peter there he wanted to be by my rotten trick, but I landed myself in a cloud with a silver lining. Maybe I didn't deserve it, but just the same I am there and riding pretty."

Three more days of such stern reasoning and gradual resignation to his new creed had done much for Peter's state of mind. Avis had calmly observed this very obvious change and took advantage of it gradually.

She increased her personal attention to him; made little intimate ventures which became more pronounced as the days passed slowly; played upon her conviction that no matter how much a man renounces love, he is the eternal lover and recipient of love, that he cannot submit without some demonstration of his emotional forces. She flattered and entertained him, exerted herself to be attractive, and destructive and

"Peter can have all the Paris scholarships he wants—for the good old green. I only wanted to go to Paris to tide over the depression, anyway. First crack after the exhibit, one of the big money kings buys my 'Flight' and gives me an order to do a larger copy for the entrance to the airport. Then I almost collapsed when fortune threw her arms around me again, and a petty dealer bought the patent on some little modernistic figure that he will manufacture by thousands to put in the five-and-dime stores. What do you say, is that a break or isn't it?"

Her face lighted with genuine admiration. "I loved it, and I'm awfully glad for you. I hate to think that you could do a thing like that to Peter—but since it came out all right, there must have been some reason in the whole plan. I'm glad you told me about it, Gus. I appreciate that it does mean something to me. It would have been a dreadful mystery to have hanging over us for all our lives. But don't be revengeful and petty like that again, will you?" Camilla implored him.

"Not on your life, I won't. Me for the straight and narrow—and prosperity."

"I hope it continues for you," she smiled. "You have some fine things in you to develop, I'm sure."

"Gee, but you're sweet. Tell you what, I might even write you a statement of confession to show to Peter sometime, if you will promise me to burn it right away after he reads it. I don't care to have incriminating evidence like that around."

"You don't need to tell me that. If you wish me to tell Peter, I shall. He will believe me, of course. And he will be relieved to know how it happened. I'm sure he never believed that I did it, anyway."

"Well, I'd advise you to keep your eye on Avis Werth."

Camilla laughed with a deprecating gesture. "Avis doesn't worry me." But she did not believe what she said, and when Gus Matson had gone, she sat huddled over her drawing board in abject misery and despair.

Her thoughts leaped the expanse of land and ocean which divided them, and she visioned Avis and Peter on the boat together for hours and days. Then Peter—Peter a stranger and a novice; and Avis as familiar with the city, the customs, the language, as at home. Avis, seductive, amorous, subtle, confident, with everything to her advantage. Angry tears stung in her eyes.

After a night of restless pacing the decks and turning in his upper berth, Peter emerged to a victory over his emotions. With bitter regret and angry resentment, he had slain love; and now looked upon the results dispassionately. Never again would he give rein to his emotions. Never again could he, or would he, permit himself to love.

He had loved Camilla. Work and success were all that made life worth while, anyway.

He would devote every moment, every effort, every emotion to those elements. He would be hard and cold and grasping like the rest of the world—take what he wanted when he wanted it, accept what pleased his fancy, ignore all obligations to sentiment. He suspected that was the creed of all successful men—and women. Well, he would join their ranks.

He thought of Avis with a mounting sense of appreciation and gratitude. He had her to thank for so many things: his financial security, her influence in his behalf via the intrigues of John Denforth, even the truth about Camilla's unforgivable act.

Three more days of such stern reasoning and gradual resignation to his new creed had done much for Peter's state of mind. Avis had calmly observed this very obvious change and took advantage of it gradually.

She increased her personal attention to him; made little intimate ventures which became more pronounced as the days passed slowly; played upon her conviction that no matter how much a man renounces love, he is the eternal lover and recipient of love, that he cannot submit without some demonstration of his emotional forces. She flattered and entertained him, exerted herself to be attractive, and destructive and

All unconsciously, Peter's attention and ardor transferred themselves to Avis, and almost before he was aware of what was happening, he found himself caught up and hurled along by the mighty force of his desires. Her nearness tantalized him, maddened him; until on that last magic evening of moonlight and sea breeze, when the emotions were strangely alive and alert with the anticipation of the morning's landing, he found his lips pressed to hers, himself holding her intoxicating fragrance in his arms, and all else oblivion.

"But—that man you love," he finally reminded her.

"That man—is you, Peter, darling," she confessed.

He was dazed. "Oh—I begin to see light."

She laughed softly. "Dear Peter, you are simply too good to be true. Now that you know—what are you going to do about it?"

"I don't know," he confessed dejectedly.

After a little while, she consoled him. "Oh, well, why think about that now? Tonight is tonight. Tomorrow is another day. Tomorrow, we reach Paris. There is so much to be done. You are going to be very busy. But we can see each other often, and when you are settled, we can have such glorious times together—while we wait." She did not say what they would be waiting for, but it hung in the air between them.

His silence seemed to be an acceptance of her plans.

By Aline Michaelis

THE MAN WHO DREAMS

Who is so wrong as the man who dreams. Trading the real for the thing which seems.

Shaping the days in the mold of his need, Building a world for his whim or his creed.

Who is so foolish, so futile as he, Taking the false for reality? Wrinkling his cowardly well-content With a toy in place of the world God meant?

Waiting, while months and years slip past, Caught in a net that holds him fast, Shut out and bound in the web of dream.

Losing the truth of creation's scheme Missing the best of the things that are, The sweet and lost that are part of life.

Pope John Gives Up Horses And Closes His Stables

The Papal stables, which once had accommodation for sixty horses, have been finally closed down. Pius XI, his cardinals and prelates, have all taken to motor cars. No more will the streets of Rome ring to the tread of the stately coal-black horses which used to draw the carriages of members of the Sacred College. Saddest of all at the change is the Pope's head coachman, or, as he is entitled to be called, "the Holy Father's noble coachman," 80-year-old Rinaldo Jacchini.

The Dunedin Natural museum of New Zealand has two rare and perfect specimens of Moa eggs. These large eggshells, resembling the ostrich, only larger, and confined to New Zealand, are thought to have become extinct more than 500 years ago.

Persia Cleared of Beggars

Incurables Sent To Institutions And Able-Bodied Must Work

By a ministerial edict all beggars have been swept off the streets of Persian towns and even from the courtyards of mosques where for centuries since Islam entered the country they have begged for alms.

The lame, the blind and the insane, have been sent to institutions. The able-bodied have been put to work on the new railroad with the option of going to prison with hard labor for three years. For the work they do they are paid the minimum wage permitted by the state schedule for labor.

Only those who know the East can appreciate the scope of this reform. In Teheran, which has a population of 300,000, there were 22,000 beggars organized into fraternities, guilds and corporations sometimes dating back to the foundation of the city.

Islam forbade any interference with beggars on the grounds that alms are the surest road to paradise. The shah had to tread warily for the mosque courtyard was the beggars' chosen pitch, and the precincts of the mosque have always been sanctuaries.

The sovereign determined to make religion see reason, and therefore persuaded the mujtahid of Isfahan, the highest Moslem dignitary, to send a chaplain to accompany him on an incognito tour of beggary.

The chaplain saw for himself the enormity of the racket. In due course the mujtahid issued his fiat. "It is good to help the poor. It is evil to rob the poor. The beggars of this town are guilty of robbing the poor and must therefore be driven from the sacred precincts of mosques."

The mujtahid, a wise and learned doctor of Islamic law, also ruled that the Koran enjoined that the insane, the blind and the lame, and the sick should be treated with respect and consideration as being "afflicted by the most high God." It was not possible to respect them in the public places, and therefore they must be put away and tended.

Deep Sea Divers Are Blinded By Flashlight Explosion

Blinded for a time by a premature flashlight explosion, two members of the New York Zoological Society's deep-sea expedition spent an uncomfortable five minutes down around the bottom of the sea at Bermuda.

For several minutes after the blinding flash, Dr. William Beebe and his assistant, Otis Barton, could only grope blindly through the interior of the great steel ball in which they had been lowered 1,500 feet below the surface.

Sealed in their bathysphere, they had gone down to take photographs of strange sea creatures at that depth. But a short circuit exploded their four flashlight bulbs simultaneously—instead of singly—and their picture-taking was suspended.

By the time the explorers had been hauled back to the surface they had recovered their sight fully and were none the worse for their experience.

An Interesting Bible

Bible students are interested in a 301-year-old Bible owned by C. S. Cooper, of Windsor, Ontario, which has developed a curious quality of faintly discernible luminescence. Containing all books of the Bible, this volume contains the Apocrypha and one of the first concordances ever published. The type used is English script and very difficult for modern eyes to read.

Mr. Cooper inherited the book from his father, S. Moorehouse Cooper.

Designed to make secure almost anything from a small bottle to a large door, a possible lock about the size of a 25-cent piece may be attached without the use of tools.

Little Helps For This Week

"The Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord make His face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee; the Lord lift up His countenance upon thee, and give thee peace." Numbers 6:24-26.

O Love how cheering is Thy ray; All pain before Thy presence Care, anguish, sorrow melt away, Where'er Thy healing beams are sent.

Nothing nothing may I see, O Father deeper or seek but Thee. —P. Gerhardt.

There is a faith in God and a clear perception of His will and designs which gives to its possessor confidence, patience and a sweet composure under all varied and troubling aspect of events such as no man can realize unless he has felt its influence in his own heart. There is a communion with God in which the soul feels the presence of the unseen One in the profound depths of his own being with a vivid distinctness, and a holy reverence, such as no words can describe. There is a state of union with God, not often reached, but it has been attained in this world, in which all the past, present and future seem reconciled, and eternity is won and enjoyed; and God and man, earth and heaven, with all their mysteries are apprehended in truth as they lie in the mind of the infinite.—Samuel D. Robbins.

Mythical Tenant Of The Lunar Planet Is Photographed

Reproduction of the moon's likeness—the first recorded use of television in astronomy—was announced by Philip T. Farnsworth, 28-year-old inventor-scientist of Philadelphia.
